

People serving the community

Athens Services is a community-first company. Athens employees help build healthy environments by volunteering their time and donating resources to the communities Athens serves and beyond. Exceptional service begins with great people. Athens Services is proud to recognize employee contributions during the second quarter of 2020.

BALDWIN PARK, CA

In April, Athens donated a variety of personal protective equipment to Kaiser Permanente Hospital in Baldwin Park. The donation included hundreds of N95 face masks that filter at least 95 percent of airborne particles and viruses. IRWINDALE, CA

TORRANCE, CA

As businesses prepared to reopen, at least partially, from the pandemic, Athens employees stood ready to help them resume their vital waste and recycling services in May and June. This is a challenging time for everyone, especially as businesses close, reopen, and close again. Athens is here to help meet the needs of our local businesses and their customers.

In June, Athens' Vincent yard team conducted its annual Safety Backing Event. This exercise is an opportunity for drivers to test their backing skills, review safety checklists, and be proactive in identifying any potential issues with their trucks before they arise. Over the span of seven hours, more than 100 drivers came to test their backing up skills. This event is all part of the Athens Way commitment to keeping employees safe, so they can continue to provide the excellent service communities depend on.

HEROES WORK HERE

It's said that an army travels on its stomach – meaning that they can't get very far without food. You could apply that same sentiment to Athens' "army" of drivers, mechanics, customer service staff, office staff, and so many others who dedicate themselves to serve the waste and recycling needs of residents and businesses across Southern California. Providing meals and fellowship is part of Athens' way of saying "Thanks for a job well-done."
